What's a WAMM anyway?

In 2012, the question was raised "Do churches in our area know where the holes are in our community's services for the homeless and people in need....and do they talk to each other?"

Wake Area Missions Ministries (WAMM) was and is the invitation for the Christian community of churches and ministries to come together to better communicate and work better together to serve those in need.

The Body of Christ working together. That's it. WAMM is a movement, not an organization; no membership, no dues, not a controlling entity, and no record keeping. A Website serves as a platform to find local opportunities for the Body of Christ to Pray Together, Work Together and Talk Together.

The website is WWW.Wakeareamissionsministries.com. Go to the website, check it out and "Join the movement" today!

What's a CarePoint?

WAMM invited meal and outreach providers serving in Moore Square Park on the weekends, to come together to consider a community wide effort to begin setting up scattered points of care in and around the city. The purpose of these sites or points of care would be to provide for the material and spiritual needs of people who were homeless or at risk of becoming homeless. CarePoint was born.

Serving more people, but in smaller numbers; to build deeper relationships that may lead to a transformed life and if possible the desire to leave the streets and camps. For many, especially the medically and mentally fragile, the plan included helping them become housed and maybe even save their lives.

Though WAMM birthed CarePoint, it is open to anyone through a website - www.CarePointraleigh.org and allows people of all or no particular faith to find a place to connect their desire to give with people needing help with serving the great needs of our community.
